

The FCC must not weaken perfectly reasonable state Do Not Call laws. There is no need for businesses that have recently conducted business with a customer on the DNC list to make business solicitation calls to that customer. Under both fed & NJ state laws, a business can call re a problem with the original transaction. However, that transaction should not waive the customer's right not to be bothered with sales calls from that business.